Guidance and Support

How to use this presentation

This presentation has been created using Power Point and throughout contains live links to help you to access easily additional guidance, help and support.

As applicable additional information relating to each slide can be found in the 'notes section'.

Personal Tutoring

The Personal Tutor system is a fundamental element of a network of support services and is underpinned by the following principles:

1. Respect for every student as an active learner and an individual with their own learning needs
 2. A shared responsibility for each student's learning, development and achievement
 3. Support for the induction of students into the academic community and their transition through academic study
 4. Recognition of the importance of equality of opportunity, diversity and inclusion.
- Student will be given the name and contact details of their personal tutor during the initial induction period or within two weeks of enrolment for continuing students
 - A minimum of 4 meetings in year 1 with a further two meetings each, in years 2 and 3. The first meeting should be within the first 2 weeks of starting University.
 - There is a shared responsibility for the student and personal tutor to proactively engage with the process, and it is the student's responsibility to attend and to participate.
 - Written records should be maintained. Please use the mechanisms advocated by your faculty or department.
 - If the Personal Tutor is absent, departments/ areas will provide alternative points of contact. Each department /area/ Faculty must have a system in place to address urgent issues.
 - Specific consideration to ensure the equity of those students following Joint or Combined Honours Programmes must be given.
 - In exceptional circumstances, if either the student or the personal tutor requests a change, the department/ area will have a clear procedure for dealing with this.
 - During the working week, your Personal Tutor will respond to informal emails and telephone enquiries normally within two working days".
 - Ensure clearly defined information about the role of the Personal Tutors is available and accessible for students
 - Personal Tutor will provide general guidance on academic and support issues, and signpost or refer the student to other sources of advice and guidance

COVID19

To support the process of Personal Tutoring during the pandemic we reiterate the baseline requirements of the University and offer the following supplementary advice and guidance:

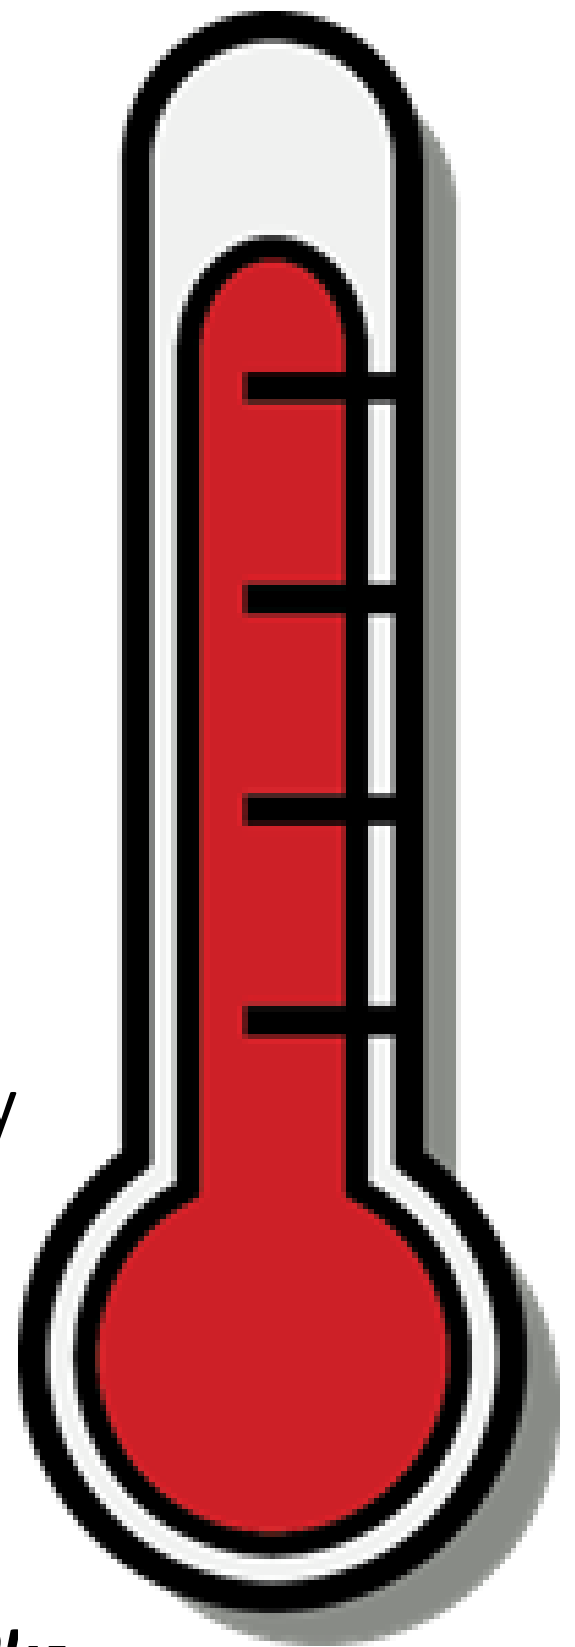

- Students must be provided with their Personal Tutors contact details by the end of 'first week' at the latest.
- Tutors must make contact with and arrange to 'meet' their tutees within the first two weeks of semester one. This can be face-to-face, present in person on campus or undertaken synchronously online.
- Tutors must make clear to their tutees how they will communicate with them. Tutors must ensure compliance with accessibility legislation.
- Tutors must meet with their tutees on at least two separate occasions individually in semester one, and they should schedule future meetings in good time to ensure continuity of communication.
- Tutors must record notes from meetings in accordance with guidance from their departments.

Ideas to enhance support:

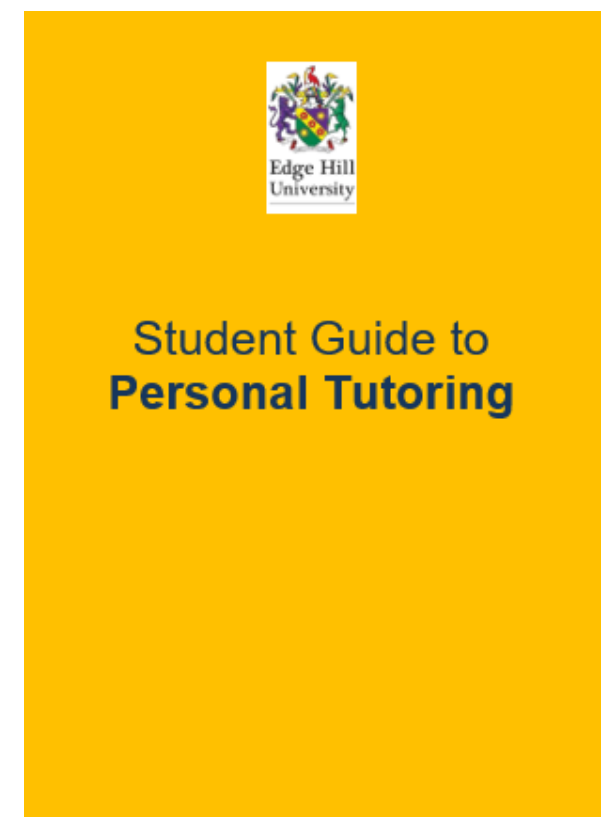

- Use peer mentors and the peer mentoring system as a mechanism to further support your students.
- Send weekly 'temperature checking' emails to individual tutees and respond with focused support accordingly should any students require additional support.
- Send weekly communications, similar to a newsletter, to highlight key dates and deadlines, to signpost learning and support services, and opportunities for cohort and institutional social activity.

While group tutorials (one per week each week during semester one) are advocated to support group engagement, and offer guidance relating to communal challenges or shared issues, these must not be offered in lieu of individual synchronous online face-to-face meetings.

Support Services Update: What support is available, how to access and where to signpost

Catalyst Helpdesk team

The Catalyst Helpdesk team offers frontline support for Learning Services, Student Services and Careers. Students can find information and advice on:

- Accommodation
- Campus Life
- Money Advice
- Disability support, including Inclusion and the SpLD team
- Uniskills and library support
- Careers advice, volunteering and job seeking
- Care Leavers
- Transitions
- Chaplaincy
- Wellbeing and counselling

Most of the teams listed above are offering virtual appointment options to students during COVID-19. Visit the links for details. The Helpdesk can help students access support from these services. If students are unsure what support they need they can also check out the FAQs on the Catalyst knowledgebase where they can also contact the Helpdesk team.

During the current situation, students can get in touch with the Catalyst Helpdesk by email: CatalystEnquiries@edgehill.ac.uk or Live Chat

The Transitions team

The Transitions team provide extra support if a student is finding it difficult to settle in, has a problem with their studies, course, or student life is not what they expected.

- Pre-entry support
- Designated point of contact: Care Leavers, Care Experienced, Estranged, Transgender
- Thinking of Leaving service
- 1:1 case-management; offering a range of support including virtual, face to face (where possible) and phone appointments
- Joining up support; working with academic staff to offer joined up, mutual support for students thinking of leaving, or struggling with their studies.
- Liaison with any necessary external agencies (Local Authorities, Charities and Student Loan Company)
- Research into the barriers faced by students from Widening Participation backgrounds which feeds into policy development and process improvements across the Institution and directly into the APP (Access and Participation Plan 2020-25).

What support is available, how to access and where to signpost

Things not going to plan.....

If students are finding it difficult to settle in, have a problem with their studies or course or student life is not what they expected - help is available.

You can use the Thinking of Leaving toolkit and/or refer students to the Transitions Team who will case manage the student.

Case Management Scenario: Year 1 student – Thinking Of Leaving

The Transitions team

A student is referred to Transitions by their Personal Tutor for support:

The student's attendance has dropped, and they have missed an assessment deadline. The student has been unresponsive to emails and has been reluctant to attend meetings with their PT.

A member of the Transitions team send an initial email to engage the student and to invite them in for an appointment to discuss the situation.

During the initial appointment, the student discloses the following to Transitions; they are estranged from their family; they don't feel they have the academic confidence to continue with their studies; they have a diagnosed mental health condition which they have not informed their department about.

Case Management Scenario: Year 1 student – Thinking Of Leaving

The Transitions team

Initial referrals:

- Wellbeing - to reach out to the student for Mental Health support
- Campus Life - to offer support with social interactions and confidence building with other students on campus
- UniSkills - for academic support and strategies for learning and to help the transition into Higher Education
- Inclusion - to check the student has the appropriate Student Support Plan in place for their diagnosed Mental Health condition
- Money Advice Team - to check no financial hardship has been incurred due to Estrangement.

Actions:

- Transitions follow up Estrangement evidence – to support student with their claim to Independent status with Student Loan Company. It transpires student is also a Care Leaver and is entitled to a Care Leaver Bursary.
- The student agrees in their initial meeting that Transitions can link in with the department, an email is sent to the PT along with request for additional academic support for this student from the department, in liaison with Inclusion team too, once the Student Support Plan is in place
- Follow up appointments are offered to the student – regular check-ins with the departments and services as required.

Outcome:

- As of June 2020 the student is still receiving support from Transitions Team. Over the course of the year, the student realised the course was not for them and, following a further referral to the Careers service, decided to internally transfer to a different course at Edge Hill University.

Supporting Staff to Support Students (SSSS)

SSSS is part of the University's Wellbeing For All Project and includes training and toolkits for staff to support students with a range of issues.

Online Toolkits have been developed to support staff in supporting students with a range of different issues including Mental Health, Disability and Inclusion and Responding to Sexual Assault Disclosures. They include information on how and when to refer students and useful resources for staff. The toolkits can be accessed here

Mental Health Awareness training to support staff to support students and colleagues is available online for all staff during Covid-19 and can be accessed here

The SSSS project is now beginning to look at how we can support our LGBTQ+ students and we would like to hear from you. We have designed a survey to get your input into what you think would be helpful in our toolkits and training. You can complete the survey here if you wish to provide your views.

Supporting Staff to Support Students (SSSS) Toolkits

What is the toolkit for?

The aim of this toolkit is to help staff to support students at Edge Hill University. This toolkit aims to provide a single resource which can be used by all university staff to increase knowledge, understanding and confidence, in order to help students maximise their academic potential.

Anxiety can sometimes be considered as a healthy emotional response to threat and it helps us to deal adequately with a range of situations. However, when people suffer from Generalised Anxiety Disorder (GAD), they have regular or uncontrolled worries about many different things in everyday life. This feeling of anxiety is often triggered by hypothetical thoughts and worries about the future.

A student may have GAD if:

- Their worrying is significantly affecting their daily life, including study, work and social life.
- Their worries are extremely stressful and upsetting to them.
- They worry about lots of things and have a tendency to think the worst.
- Their worrying is uncontrollable.
- They have felt worried nearly every day for at least 6 months.
- They struggle to relax.

Top 10 Tips for Personal Tutoring at a Distance

Top 10 Tips for Personal Tutoring at a Distance

During this time of social distancing and remote learning, it is more important than ever to build effective relationships and keep in touch with tutees who may be experiencing social isolation and anxiety about their learning. Follow our top tips for effective personal tutoring at a distance.

Follow established effective practice in supporting your students at a distance. Act in accordance with the UKAT Core Values of Personal Tutoring and Academic Advising, follow the competencies articulated in the UKAT Professional Framework for Academic Advising and Personal Tutoring, and make use of resources available to personal tutors through UKAT.

Build your effective remote tutoring environment

Setup the information and communication technologies your institution provides on your personal equipment and learn how to use them effectively. Gather the information you need to support students, preferably in electronic format.

Don't overlook an old-fashioned phone call

Don't under-estimate the accessibility and value of a telephone conversation in supporting a student. Not all students can, or want, to use video. You can provide effective support over the phone, especially if you send notes and resources in a follow-up email.

Focus on the human relationship

Regularly check in with your tutees to reassure and reaffirm. Take time to get to know your students, ask them how they are coping, encourage them to raise concerns and/or additional needs and be sensitive to difficulties a student may be experiencing but which they have not disclosed.

Keep notes and send follow-up emails

After each meeting, email your tutee a copy of the notes, together with any links, documents, and resources that will be useful to them. Keep meetings notes electronically makes sharing easier.

Establish clear boundaries and expectations

Add your availability to students, details of how they can contact you, and when they can expect a response to your email footer. Consider how to protect your own privacy and work/life boundaries when working from home.

Know how to refer when working remotely

Referral processes may be different when supporting students remotely and students may need support from services you don't normally refer to (e.g. IT service). Stay up to date on the services available and how you connect students to them.

Ensure your students can engage with you

Set - and keep! - virtual office hours. Take responsibility for proactively arranging appointments with tutees, providing them with details of how you will connect and who is responsible for making the video/phone call.

Setup an online learning community for your tutees

Use your institutional VLE or MS Teams, etc to share information and resources with your tutees and hold group tutorial meetings.

Make your personal tutoring accessible

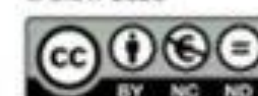

Beware of relying on only technology. Ask your students what would be useful to them and let them choose what works best for them.

Follow flipped tutoring principles

Not all of your tutoring needs to be synchronous, face-to-face interactions. Why not follow a flipped tutoring approach by creating some simple reflective activities, hosted in your VLE, for your tutees to engage with?

Scenarios

Using information from previous slides on support services available and the 10 Tops Tips for PTs, how can you best support each of these students in the two scenarios below?

1. Student expresses, via email, that she is feeling anxious and panicky about her academic ability as the first lot of assessment approaches in Year 1 (she doesn't think she belongs at university).
2. A first-year student tell you, via a Zoom PT meeting, in November 2020, that she thinks she has made a mistake coming to university and is thinking of leaving. During the conversation she tells you her loan still hasn't come through, her Mum is disabled, her boyfriend just left...and she thinks she might be pregnant.

You might want to consider the following:

- what information do you need to know about this student?
- where and who might you refer this student to?
- what strategies can you put into place on the course ? as her PT?
- what ongoing support is needed?
- what record would you keep of this meeting?

Recording meetings

There is a University requirement that tutors record meetings. Departments operate their own mechanisms for recording Personal Tutor meetings and offer support to access and use these. Please ask your line manager or Head of Department if you are in any doubt about how to record and take notes in your area.

What to record:

- Progress and achievements
- Targets for future development
- Information that could inform and support the creation of a reference
- Notes relating to help, advice or guidance given, and the support that you have signposted, for example Student or Learning Services, Campus Life or Money Advice.

There may be some conversations where it is not appropriate to record detail. If you are in any doubt about how to move forward, to signpost a student or make a record that support has been provided please seek advice from your line manager / Head of Department.
