Die Praxis der Liebe (The Practice of Love) is a new immersive performance installation that is based on the biographies of the people that attended the Victoria Baths weaved into the performers own stories of love lost and found.
The work moves from pool to dance hall to final immersion as the audience are taken on a journey, as the performers assemble and reassemble snippets of choreography that emerge and re-emerge as both cohesive and chaotic, the chance moment of movements in and out of synchronicity.

Performed in the stunning Grade 2 Listed building of Victoria Baths in Manchester. Final Year Dance and Drama students from Edge Hill University, have been working intensively with VOIDANCE Company, a professional project based Company from Manchester. The work is a promenade performance and the audience moves through the grandeur of the pool areas, changing rooms, viewing galleries and ballroom spaces.

Performance event not to be missed.
